I am going to talk about snorkeling near coral reefs and whether it should be prohibited or not.

I think snorkeling near coral reefs is damaging for the animals because when we are snorkeling near coral reefs we can break them.

Then, when the coral reefs are broken, the animals’ habitat is destroyed and those animals haven’t got any house where to live. And this is going to destabilize the ecosystem.

Some countries permit snorkeling because they only think in their own immediate benefit, but they never think about the problems this causes to the ecosystem.

Over time, the natural resources from the coral reefs will disappear and the governments don't provide any solution for this type of problems.

In conclusion, snorkeling is damaging to the ecosystem, therefore I am against this type of activities.
